LOCAL FACTORY GROWS

We feel that the people of Appomattox should take some notice of the encouraging growth of the garment factory, which is adding greatly to the business life of the community. Within the past few weeks the number of employees at the factory has doubled, and this week a double shift was started. Of perhaps more interest to the business men is the fact that last Saturday saw the largest pay roll in the history of the garment plant here. We offer our congratulations to the management of this plant.

BURN'EM UP

It is amazing the amount of matter the average newspaper gets in the mails under the name of news matter. One day recently this paper got 23 so called "news releases" in the mail, and all but a few were cases of disguised advertising matter having no place in the news column. So it is welcome news that an original member of the state editorial fraternity has hit upon a novel scheme to impress the space "hustlers" and has asked all editors to save the accumulation of this matter and bring it along to the approaching meeting of the press association and let all hands join in a public bonfire.

Personally, we have found that the greatest producers of publicity on record, are the various agencies of the government at Washington. Let some New Deal under assistant secretary to the assistant regional administrator of some remote department, make a speech and he has copies of it franked out to all the editors. Not one in twenty-five releases of these government departments ever gets published, but they still clog the mails.

Only 395 Veterans Left In Va. Five To Attend 1936 Reunion

With seventy-one years having elapsed since the firing of the last gun at Appomattox in the War Between the States, the ranks of the veterans in Virginia has greatly diminished. The annual Confederate veterans' reunion will be held at Shreveport, La., next month and it is expected that this state will be represented by fewer than half a dozen of the men who wore the gray.

General Homer Atkinson, of Petersburg, commander of the Army of Northern Virginia, expects to attend the convention. He said that he did not think that more than five other Virginia veterans would accompany him. Recent pension roll figures from 12 Southern states disclosed that a total of 3,908 veterans are listed, Virginia showed 528 in 1935 and 395 for the current year.

Appomattox county has above the average for the state with seven living veterans.

Seek Federal Aid For Roads

The federal government will be asked to add from 300 to 400 miles to Virginia's federal-aid road system, the state highway commission has indicated. The state has completed 30 per cent of its federal aid system, according to highway commissioner Henry G. Shirley.

Unless the heavy costs of expensive overhead crossings are charged against Virginia's highway program by the federal authorities, the commission's request has a good chance of being approved, says Mr. Shirley. He states that the lack of state funds for new construction renders it all the more important that the request for mileage extension be granted by the federal government. This year the state has funds only for construction on federal aid projects.
